Synopsis Students will learn simple techniques to deal with bullies, to reason with, or to avoid them. If you witness bullying, don't go along with it and laugh; instead be cool and stand up for what's right. Sometimes getting help from an authority is the only thing you can do. If you are a bully, you should stop. You don't like it when someone bothers you and you really don't want to make others feel bad. Instead, use you power in a positive way. Let's all have fun, laugh, and live together.

Producer Douglas Dirkson (0256)

Audience Intermediate, Junior High (IJ)

Synopsis School bullies are not always boys -just ask Amy, a middle school student who is mercilessly teased by fellow student Stacie and her group of self-important girlfriends. Their idea of fun is to submit Amy to a daily barrage of name-calling, mean tricks, and unfounded rumors. This reduces Amy to tears, causes her to avoid other students and even to fear coming to school. The nasty-as-they-wanna-be behaviors of Stacie and her friends are contrasted with practical advice from teachers and student counselors who discuss what bullying is, how targeted students can and should take steps to end the harassment, and how being confronted about their behavior is a positive event for the bullies themselves. Bullies may not even perceive themselves as wrongdoers; when a targeted individual confronts his or her tormentors it offers the bullies an opportunity to effect a change in their own lives by stopping the negative behavior. When Lita, another student, befriends Amy and coaches her through a successful confrontation with Stacie, it leads to an emotionally dramatic turn-around in the lives of both girls. Their school's observance of a Bully-Free Awareness Week provides a fitting framework for the story.

Synopsis A school district that has used several successful strategies to keep its campuses secure is the model in this practical program on maintaining a risk-free learning environment. The behavior model adopted within the participating schools is based on four agreements: mutual respect, attentive listening, no put-downs and the right to pass. Working together with a vigilant, well-trained staff, student mediators and a caring community, the participating schools have been able to reduce bullying, settle disputes peacefully, help at-risk students to assimilate, and increase students' self-esteem and involvement with their schools.

Producer Paramount Television Group (3908)

Audience Intermediate, Junior High, Senior High, Adult (IJSa)

Synopsis Surviving High School is a searing exploration of the stress that high school kids experience as they try to fit in and be accepted by their peers. Eleven teens struggling to fit in" exemplify the ever-growing problems of isolation, extreme dieting, steroid use, depression, and suicidal thoughts. An additional inspiration is Keena Turner, a former San Francisco 49er, who relates how he became a Super Bowl champion without the use of steroids; Magali Amadei, a former model, recounts her painful battle with an eating disorder. Students are encouraged to define what it takes to "survive" on campus, as these eleven teens open up to explore the issue, and their own lives, with each other. The challenge: to find solutions to the bullying, harassment, and exclusion that have been tearing their school apart. The program motivates teens to face the truth about modern-day pressures, and make positive changes in how they perceive themselves and how they treat others. A candid, real-world adjunct for Health, Guidance and Life Skills units, the program supports lessons on stress management, self-esteem, social skills, resisting peer pressure, behavioral choices and consequences, conflict resolution, safety and injury prevention, eating disorders, alcohol and drug education, suicide prevention, youth-at-risk, and family life issues. Copyrighted 2004
Distributor Aims Multimedia (3838)
Producer Douglas Dirkson (0256)
Audience Intermediate, Junior High (IJ)
Synopsis Anyone who has ever been bullied will identify with Devon, a middle school student whose slight stature and meek demeanor lead to constant harassment by three older classmates. Devon feels helpless against their physical and verbal abuse. He even fakes illness to avoid his tormentors but nothing stops them. While shooting video footage in a school corridor, Nicole, a fellow classmate, catches an episode of bullying on tape. Afraid of getting involved, she stays silent until the bullies put Devon in the hospital. Finally, Nicole tells the assistant principal what she knows. As a result, the three boys are arrested and taken into custody. When Devon returns to school, he is surprised by a schoolwide assembly welcoming him back -and taking a stand against bullying. Between scenes from Devon's story, students speak frankly about being ridiculed for wearing the <wrong> clothes, being hit simply because the bully felt like it, and staying silent because they fear retaliation. Law enforcement officials, counselors and teachers relate that even young harassers can be sent to jail, assure students that they will be believed and protected by adults in whom they confide, and remind viewers that the only way to stop the bully cycle is to speak out. The combination of real-life experience and expert reassurance will help students to open up and talk about this all-too-common occurrence.
